Campus Redesign For Student Success: Innovative Technology, Adaptive Learning & Growth Mindset

Thursday, July 26 ~ 1:00-2:30pm (Eastern)

Once the live date has passed, this training will be available on demand.

Overview

Research undertaken into three award-winning community colleges has led to a greater understanding in the interplay of an institution's vision, its leaders' behaviors, strategic planning, and the use of data to impact student success. The five key areas identified will be examined: shared vision and communication, creating a culture of evidence, actioning innovation and initiative, accountability, and passionate and purposeful people. These areas will be explored as they relate to several examples of the integration of adaptive learning and high-impact practices at Austin Community College (the ACCelerator), Colorado State University (1st year physics for non-majors), and the University of Mississippi (first-year English).

Objectives:

- Describe the concept of "collective genius" and how it can drive innovation in education (Please note "collective genius" is a concept developed by Linda Hill)
- Discover the commonalities in vision, leadership behaviors, use of data, and strategic planning among three award-winning colleges that contributed to an organizational culture that led to the improvement of student success
- Examine how to create a modern learning environments and a sense of community that inculcates a growth mindset
- Explore "experimenting" in curriculum redesign for innovation, including the use of adaptive learning
- Investigate how integrating adaptive learning and high-impact practices can increase student engagement and retention

Who Should Attend?

- 2-year & 4-year institutions
- Academic Affairs/Instruction
- Faculty (full and part-time)
- Dean of Instruction
- Department Chairs
- Any educator interested in increasing student engagement and persistence

Campus Redesign For Student Success: Innovative Technology, Adaptive Learning & Growth Mindset

Speaker(s)

Stacey VanderHeiden Güney describes herself as an Educational Evangelist leveraging technology and innovation to increase inclusion in higher education. As Director of the Digital Learning Solution Network (DLSN), she works to strengthen an innovative and healthy digital learning eco-system through support of ongoing network activities, grantee collaborations, and fiduciary management of the network. The long-term goal of the Digital Learning Solution Network is to increase knowledge and demand for tools and practices that demonstrate improved outcomes for first generation, low income, students of color. Prior to the DLSN and WCET, Stacey served as the Assistant Vice President of Academic Affairs at Aims Community College where she focused on Online Learning, Accreditation, Institutional Research, Assessment, Faculty Development, Grants, the Learning Commons, and CTE. Prior to this, she was the founder of the ACCelerator concept for Austin Community College. The Highland Campus ACCelerator is the world's largest technology-enhanced learning environment integrating both academic redesign and a range of student services. She earned a Ph.D. in Learning Technologies from the University of North Texas, a MS in Engineering & Policy from Washington University in St. Louis, and a BA in Physics, Math, and English from Greenville College.

Dr. Deborah Kish, Vice President of Academic Affairs at Aims Community College, is a strong supporter of instructional innovation and teaching/learning excellence. Deborah holds an Associate of Arts and Bachelor of Science in Secondary Social Science Education from Florida State University and a Masters of Business Administration and Juris Doctor from the University of Florida. She earned her Doctor of Education in Community College Leadership from The Roueche Graduate Center at National American University. Her doctoral research titled, Understanding Excellence Through and Examination of Shared Vision, Leadership Behaviors, Strategic Planning, and the Use of Data at Three Award-Winning Two-Year Institutions, focuses on organizational culture similarities in high-performing institutions. Deborah's experience includes more than a decade of law practice in Florida and Colorado representing both individuals and corporations, working as the Director of Academic Affairs at the Wyoming Campus of the University of Phoenix, and serving as the Associate Dean to the Chief Academic Officer at Aims Community College. Her work is grounded in the principles of access and success for all students, providing rigorous and relevant curriculum, and striving for excellence. Deborah's 20 years of diverse professional service and education has forged her leadership with a wealth of knowledge in business practices and higher education that gives her an understanding of national and regional trends that she draws upon in her service to the college. She has a firm grasp on the challenges and barriers to access to higher education and students' success, particularly with student completion. Deborah brings her creativity and unique ability to cultivate grassroots change efforts to Aims Community College to advance learning and inspires her team with a tremendous passion for student success.
